Description:
Celebrating European Cooperation Day a Living Danube – educational workshop for protection of Danube cross border natural resources will be organized for school children and teachers from HU-HR cross border region. Workshop in the White Stork Museum gives the opportunity for young people to understand the Danube river ecosystems, basic natural values and to understand needs for cross border cooperation in protection of Middle Danube natural resources. On 21st September children – and also journalists - will have chance to participate in an open-air program and get information about the traditional floodplain farming and fishing methods. For education of pupils facilitators will use new tools developed within the project Danube.

Educational workshop is part of the project „DANUBE“ which is implemented by project partners - Green Osijek (HR), Duna-Drava National Park Directorate (HU) and Public institution agency for management of protected natural values in Osijek-Baranja County (HR). Project aims to encourage sustainable management and protection of the Middle Danube region through cross-border cooperation of project partners in raising environmental awareness and knowledge of the local population.
